THE FUNNY PAGE

JOKE OF THE MONTH

Little Zachary was doing poorly in math. His parents, after exhausting all other incentives, finally decided to enroll him in the local Catholic School. After the first day, Little Zachary came home with a very serious look on his face. He went straight to his room and started studying. This continued for some time. His mother was baffled as to why he had become so dedicated. Finally, Little Zachary brought home his report card. He quietly laid it on the table and went to his room to study. With great trepidation, his mother looked at it and, to her surprise, Little Zachary got an "A" in math. She asked, "Son, what was it? Was it the nuns, the books, the discipline, the uniforms?" Little Zachary said "No!" "What was it?" she asked. Little Zachary looked at her and said, "Well, on the first day of school, when I saw that guy nailed to the Plus Sign, I knew they weren't fooling around."

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

According to legal scholars consulted by the Associated Press, it is conceivable that Nicole Diggs, of Yonkers, N.Y., even if convicted of negligent homicide in the upcoming trial in the death of her severely disabled 8-year-old daughter, could nevertheless inherit the remains of the child's $2 million trust fund originally established for her care. Evidence is strong that Diggs had neglected the child's hygiene and diet for stretches at a time and over trusted her less-caring new husband with the girl's well-being, but New York law uniquely still allows, in principle, a convicted mother to inherit from the child as long as she did not "intentionally" harm her. COMMENTS FROM THE PAST

"Man will never reach the moon regardless of all future scientific advances." – Dr. Lee De Forest, inventor of the vacuum tube and father of television.

MORON

After being arrested just before midnight walking through the Walmart in Tega Cay, S.C., wearing nothing but a pair of shoes, Kevin Hughes, 36, said he was embarrassed, but had an explanation. "I've had a problem with drugs in the past. I still like to do Ecstasy once in a while," he said. "I accidentally got methamphetamine instead and it really made me crazy." He was charged with disorderly conduct, and bailed out of jail the next day.

ARE YOU SERIOUS????

A Vancouver, Wash., third-grade teacher rewards her students with pretend money when they finish schoolwork; then she charges them for treats like popcorn — and bathroom breaks, which cost $50. The teacher refused to waive the fee for a student who had only $50 and wanted to buy popcorn, so the student didn't go to the bathroom and eventually wet her clothes. "When a child has to pay money to use the bathroom, that's wrong," said the student's mother. "It's inhumane. That's a health issue." The school gave the girl a pair of boy's shorts to wear, and she was teased for both that and her accident. The district said it would investigate.
